

Homeless Prevention and Rapid Rehousing (HPRP) Programs

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has granted San Francisco $8.75 million as part of their Homeless Prevention and Rapid Rehousing (HPRP) Program. The program stems from the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA), which is focused on jumpstarting the economy, creating and saving jobs and laying the foundation for a robust, sustainable future. Part of this goal is investing to prevent homelessness and facilitating the quick re-housing of homeless people, while partnering with mainstream services and other ARRA-funded programs.

Grants provided under HPRP are not intended to provide long-term support for individuals and families, nor will they afford mortgage assistance to homeowners facing foreclosure. Rather, HPRP offers a variety of one-time, short and medium term financial assistance to those who would otherwise become homeless, many due to sudden economic crisis.

Services that can be provided under HPRP include:

(1) Financial Assistance Services: Short term (1-3 months) and medium term (4-18 months) rental subsidies, rental arrears, security deposits, utility deposits, utility payments, and moving cost assistance.

(2) Housing Stabilization Services: Services that assist program participants with housing stability and placement. Activities include case management, outreach and engagement, eligibility assessment, housing search and placement, legal services, and credit repair.

Payments will not be made directly to households, but only to third parties, such as landlords or utility companies.

In order to be eligible for HPRP-funded programs, applicants must be San Francisco residents and meet the following basic eligibility criteria:

Homeless Prevention (note that these funds are for people who are currently housed and at risk of losing housing, not people who are already homeless)

Households whose income is 30% AMI or below and who would become homeless but for this assistance. Households must have the ability to obtain and/or maintain stable housing through supportive services and direct financial assistance offered by the program, and successfully transition from services when the temporary assistance ends.

Be at risk of losing housing and meet both of the following circumstances:

- No appropriate subsequent housing options have been identified; AND
- The household lacks the financial resources and support networks needed to obtain immediate housing or remain in its existing housing.

Rapid Rehousing

Households that:

- Meet the HUD-McKinney definition of homelessness (coming from street, shelter, or Transitional Housing/Treatment Programs)
- Have a moderate barrier to housing; and
- Have likelihood to transition out of the subsidy into affordable housing within a 15 or 18 month period.

All households must complete an initial assessment with an HPRP provider who can determine eligibility and the appropriate type of assistance to meet their needs. There may be additional criteria for each program. Please consult the HPRP Screening Form (attached) to determine basic eligibility and for HPRP provider contact information. Note that programs provide different service activities to different populations (e.g. families, singles, and youth).
